MARINERS AT A LOSS TO EXPLAIN THE CAUSE OF THE WRECK.

Cannot Inderstand Why the Portland Ever Left Boston at All, When It Was Known a Serious Storm Threat-

PROVINCETOWN. MASS., Nov. 30 .-Nearly every sea captain and mariner on the cape, on being asked for an opinion, states that everyone on board the steamer Portland was undoubtedly lost. One feature of the disaster is the absence of any fragments of a lifeboat or life raft among the varied mass of wreckage from the Portland, which has been washed ashore. One theory is that the boat and life rafts were carried far out to sea and were not blown anywhere near the coast. The exact number of persons who were carried away from Boston by the Portland will probably ever be known, as no list of passengers was retained on shore when the vessel left last Saturday. Many estimates of the number on board have been made, but the estimates have seldom agreed.

F. Williams, Boston, agent of the Portland Steamship Company, who arrived here on the tug William H. Smith last night, places the total number of persons on the steamer at 100, or possibly 105. This estimate, however, is generally regarded as rather small. It has been stated that the number was as high as 155, but Mr. Williams denies that so many sailed on the Portland. It is probable that 129, including passengers and crew, is near the correct

Old mariners say they cannot understand why the steamer, which, about 9 o'clock Saturday night, just before the gale broke in its full fury, was sighted between Thatcher's island and Eastern point, Cape Ann, by the schooner Maud S., did not put into Gloucester harbor when it was apparent, from the fall of the barometer, that a violent northeaster was approaching. Why the Portland ever left Boston at all Saturday night is what puzzles marine men on Cape Cod.

It was off Thatcher's island that the Portland was last reported before she went to

There are many theories offered in explanation of how the vessel reached a point near the top end of Cape Cod, although the exact location where she went to pieces will probably never be known. It is generally believed here that the wreck occurred at a point about ten or possibly fifteen miles north of Peaked Hill bars, which would be from forty-five to fifty from where she was sighted by the Maud S. The tremendous seas which she must have encountered off Cape Ann undoubtedly damaged her and when Captain Blanchard saw that he could proceed no further eastward it was thought by some that he resolved to make for the open sea to avoid the dangers along the coast.

placed at from 9 to 19 o'clock Sunday afternoon. The watches found on the bodies washed ashore had nearly all stopped between those hours. The wreck could not have occurred between those hours Satur-day night, in the judgment of all competent authorities, as, in that case, the wreckage would have been washed ashore at points in Massachusetts bay.

Furthermore, the force of the storm at 10 o'clock Saturday night was not sufficiently heavy to cause the vessel to founder. When the wreck was at first reported, it was thought the boat had possibly struck on the terrible Peaked Hill bars, which are known amounts of the peaked Hill bars, which time that the Portland was lost is are known among mariners as the graveyard of the New England coast.

This theory was quickly put to flight, however, by a careful investigation. In the first place the patrol at the Peaked Hill bars lifesaving station was on the alert throughout the great storm and the men on duty saw or neard nothing to indicate that a steamer had been dashed to pleces on the shoals. The fierce gale caused such a tremendous tide that a vessel of the Portland's draught would have passed over the bars in safety and run ashore on the beach.

In fact, a large schooner in distress drawing more water than the Portland onssed

ing more water than the Portland bassed over the shallowest part of the bars and brought up on the beach.

Another incident that tends to place the time of the wreck on Sunday morning was reported by the crew of the Race Point life saving station. Race Point forms the tip of Cape Cod. The life saving crew there during the height of the storm heard four sharp whistles from a steamer, which was recognized as a danger signal. The signal was heard at about 7.45 o'clock and the crew heatily manned the beauty of the crew heatily manned the present the crew that the crew heatily manned the present the crew that the crew th signal was heard at about 7:45 o'clock and the crew hastily manned the boats to give assistance if possible.

A terrible temperat was raging and it was so thick that it was impossible to see any distance off shore. The crew could locate no steamer and the blasts of a whistle were heard only once. The men are positive that they heard a steamer whistle and are now of the opinion that it came from the Portiand some time before she foundered, for it is generally believed that she went to the bottom and was not wrecked by going on shore.

The opinion is also general here that the boat was gradually battered to pieces by the mountainous seas, the upper fittings being carried away until the water began to pour into her. The fact that her wheel was found with ropes attached, on the Orleans shore, is taken to indicate that the pilots were powerless to control the vessel's course in the bay and that they were obliged to lash the wheel.

that when its extraordinary merit becomes fully known, there will be no such thing as surgical operations for the cure of this obstinate and common trouble.

Mrs. M. C. Hinkly, of 601 Mississippl street, Indianapolis, Ind., says: I had been a terrible sufferer from piles for afteen years and no remedies benefited me, until I saw an advertisement of the Pyramid I saw an assonished at the immediate relief obtained and now I honestly believe the Pyramid to be the only certain cure for piles.

mediate relief obtained and now I honestly believe the Pyramid to be the only certain cure for piles.

That you may realize how had I was. I will say that I was confined to my bed and went before the college physicians here, who said my case was a new one to them, and wanted seven or eight hundred dollars to undertake a cure; the great pain had brought on a rupture, and I knew an operation would be death to me on account of blood poisoning. Nearly everyone here knows of my terrible suffering from piles, and I feel that I cannot praise the Pyramid Pile Cure enough, and the Pyramid Piles also. My husband will join me in highly recommending the Pyramid; my daughter was cured by one box only. For several years I weighted but about alnety pounds, now I weigh 130 and feel in perfect heaith. This seems to be the universal testimony of every sufferer from piles who has ever tried the Pyramid; it is the safest, most painless cure yet discovered; contains no opiate, morphine, cocaine or any poisonous ingredient whatever, has a soothing, healing effect from the first application, and the moderate price places it within the reach of everyone needing treatment. The Pyramid Pile Cure is sold by draugists at 30 cents and 51.00 per package, and the Pyramid Pilis at 25 cents per box.

CHEROKEES CANNOT AGREE. Each House Favors a Different Collector of the Government

Claim. TAHLEQUAH, I. T., Nov. 30.-(Special.) The legislature yesterday defeated the proposition of the Missouri, Kansas and Texas Trust Company and of Wiley O. Cox. of Kansas City, to collect the $4,500,000 due the Cherokees by the government. The trust company and Mr. Cox each offered to collect the money for a commission of 10 per cent without further cost to the

to collect the money for a commission of 19 per cent without further cost to the Indians. Mr. Cox's proposition received a two-thirds majority in the house, but failed of passage in the senate by a close vote. The proposition of the trust company passed the senate, but was overwhelmingly defeated in the house.

Lawyers and bankers are satisfied that the claim against the government can be collected. The claim is for subsistance money which the United States agreed to pay during the journey of the Indians when they were removed to the Indians when they were removed to the Indian Territory from the East in 1837. It took over a year to make the removal and the money, amounting to $1,20,000, was never paid. With sixty years interest this amounts to over $4,009,000, About $200,000 additional is claimed by the Cherokees for misappropriated funds. When the Cherokee strip was opened, the commission which examined the subsistence claim found that $4,500,000 was due the Cherokees, and Hoke Smith, secretary of the interior, approved the claim. But when the matter was referred to Attorney General Harmon, he reported adversely on a technicality.

SMALLER THAN HE FEARED. President Hollinger of the A. J. Gillespie Stock Company Is Feeling Much Better.

J. S. Hollinger, president of the A. J. Gillespie Stock Company, at the stock yards, returned yesterday from Woodbine where he has been for several days look-ing after the interests of his firm involved ing after the interests of his firm involved in the Gillett failure. Gillett handled a large amount of his business through that firm and the firm in turn passed his paper over to banks, brokers and investors all over the country. As the paper carries the firm's indorsement, it was necessary for the firm to get the mortgage cattle into its possession. The firm, it is claimed, will be a heavy loser in the deal, but Mr. Hollinger said yesterday the loss would be far less than he feared when he left Kansas City a few days ago. He was able to locate many of the cattle and with each lot secured the loss was reduced.

Mr. Hollinger did not pay off the attachment of $140 that was run on his office fixtures Tuesday evening. The firm's business here is in a very chaotic condition. Shipments are coming to it all the time, but they are turned over to other firms to be handled and the office of the firm that, for so many years, has been doing a big business, is a deserted place save for the employes and others who sit about and discuss the Gillett failure.

The effort of the Continental National bank of St. Louis to replevin 600 head of stock from Trower's Sons was abandoned yesterday morning, as the stock proved to be wholly different from the description that was called for in the national bank paper. The bank wanted 600 Texas steers while the lot that was tried to be replevined from Trowers were from Oregon and carried a wholly different parad.

The Gillett deal is still a popular topic of conversation at 'the yards. Altorneys for the various firms are at work trying to get the tangled web straightened out so that all interests may be protected. in the Gillett failure. Gillett handled a

Another attachment suit against Gillett was begun in the circuit court yesterday.

John Donovan, through his attorneys, Harkless, O'Grady & Crysler, is seeking possession of several carloads of cattle expected at the stock yards last night from the West. He sues on $5,100 in notes and acceptances of Gillett's.

CREDITORS ARE WRANGLING. Some of the Gillett Cattle Still Remain at Woodbine-New Mortgages Discovered. ABILENE, KAS., Nov. 30.-(Special. Rival commission firms wrangled all day over another shipment of cattle from the Woodbine ranch of G. G. Gillett. Several hundred head yet remain, and there is a bunch of pure-bred Herefords claimed by his wife which is also sought. Commission men are locating stock on farms and ranches through Central Kansas and are having some lively struggles to obtain possession. The first estimate that only half or three-fourths of the stock would be found will not be far wrong.

A new mortgage of Gillett to the Gillesple Commission Company, of Kansas City, for $10,300, on 500 young Herefords, supposed to be a mile south of Woodbine, made October 26, was filed to-day. In Chase county, Gillett mortgages to the amount of $489,000 are found, but considerable of this is also recorded here. W. F. Dunlap, who was Gillett's agent in that county, has 4,500 to 5,000 cattle. J. W. Gillett and D. W. Naill, of this county, say they have found cattle enough to protect their paper and they are breathing easier. Farmers are very reticent about their beids, fearing prior ciaims may be found, and in some cases they have driven off their stock to keep it from the visitors.

TOPEKA, Nov. 20.—(Special.) J. K. Cubbison, of Kansus City, representing Dake & Keeler, the Denver cattlemen, this evening gave a redelivery bond in the repleving case filed by the Savings bank, of St. Joseph, yesterday to secure possession of 400 head of cattle formerly owned by Gillett, The Denver firm took charge of the cattle after giving the bond. He represents as an attorney, several cattle firms in Oklahoma which were iterested in the Gil-Oklahoma which were iterested in the Gillett failure. His home is in Woodward. He predicts a big attendance at the annual convention of cattlemen from Kansas, Oklahoma and Texas, to be held at Woodward early in 1839.

Kansas Farmer Dragged to Death. ALMA KAS., Nov. 30.—(Special.) A coroner's fiquest was held to-day over the body of John Thoes. Thoes left Alma early last night for home, six miles south, but went but a short distance when lewas thrown from his wagon, breaking his neck. He was dragged several miles by the lines and was found this morning in a neighbor's feed yard. The verdict was accidental death.

Creditors Got Little.

M'PHERSON, KAS., Nov. 30.—(Special.) The affairs of the First State bank, which falled here over a year ago, were practically closed up the district court today. Of the trust fund, about 80 per cent was paid. The other creditors received only 15 per cent. The outcome is a said disappointment to many, who were led to believe it would pay out in full.

John K. Wright Wants a Place. TOPEKA. Nov. 30.—(Special.) The latest candidate to announce himself for a place on the state board of railroad commissioners is John K. Wright, an old-time Republican leader, of Junction City. The Fifth district has never had a Republican member of that board and the Republicans there are inclined to demand a place this time.

eedy Wants to Be "Vindicated" and Will Seek the 1900 Nomination Senators King, Householder and Ryan in the Race.

TOPEKA, Nov. 30 .- (Special.) John Madden, of Lyon county, is a full-fledged can-didate for the Populist nomination for governor in 1900. This announcement was madto-day. Madden, as well as all the other prominent Populists of the state, is going on the theory that there will be fusion between the Democrats and Populists two years hence on the same basis as in 1898. They are taking no stock in the "amalgamation" talk now being indulged in by the Democrats. In fact, they say the Demo-crats have no show whatever of swallowing up the Populist party. They assert that in 1900 the Populists will get the state ticket and the Democrats the presidential electors No other arrangement is discussed. There is a general understanding among the Pop ilist leaders that this plan will "go." For that reason Pops are already popping up

Madden claims that he is entitled to the comination because he sacrificed himself for the state ticket by keeping out of the congressional fight. In view of the fact that the Republican was elected to congress in Madden's district by a tremendous majority, some of the friends of other can-didates say Madden did not make such a great sacrifice after all Madden has denanded the support of the Leedy crowd, but he will not get it. Leedy will be candidate himself. He wants to be "vindicated." His pets are now laying the wires to land him the nomination. W. L. Brown has promised him the Seventh district alnost solid. "Pap" Quarles says he will get Wyandotte without any trouble, John Atgood has agreed to swing the Leavenworth Pops into line for him.

are willing to sacrifice themselves on the political altar and take the gubernatorial Senator L. P. King, of Cowley, has been tching for years to make the race. He is going in this time for blood.

Senator Moses Householder, of Cherokee, wanted to get into the race last summer, but Leedy's friends brought pressure to bear on him and kept him out. He will be a formidable candidate next time. Record of the Last Month of the Year for the Past Decade-Coldest for Ten Years Was in '92.

December in this immediate vicinity for the past ten years has been characterized by all sorts and conditions of weather. The mean temperature has been 36 degrees, and yet it has fallen as low as 13 below zero, this on the 25th, 1898, while it has gone as high as 70, on the 12th, 1889. The coldest mouth in the ten years was that in 1892, when the average temperature was 77, while in 1889 it went as high as 46.

The clear and the cloudy days have been evenly divided, with eleven each upon the records, while the partly cloudy days make up the delicit with nine. The prevailing winds have been from the south. The highest velocity which the breeze has attained to was thirty-eight miles an hour, and this was a Northwester on the 25th, in 1890, and on the 15th, in 1893.

The average monthly rainfall was 1.36 inches. On six days of the month there has been more than a trace, while the greatest amount of precipitation recorded for any twenty-four hours during December was 1.83 inches on the 25th and 25th, 1895. The greatest amount of snowfall during any twenty-four hours was 6.3 inches on the 15th, 1892.
